

Transportation Policy Council

August 25, 2023

Public Comments

Hello

My comment is as follows:

I believe that continuing to expand and widen highways - as put forward in TxDOT'S recent 2024 UTP - will only continue to exacerbate the issue of people who aren't in cars being hit and killed by people in cars - something the City of Houston is trying to address with its Vision Zero plan.

Even for those of you who aren't living in the city, I imagine you would want the safest possible roads for you, your family, and your friends - especially if they aren't the ones driving. It is my hope that this council continues to keep this in mind with future proposals on transportation.
